PlanSwift 9.5 is a charting program used in various business enterprises. Besides the standard charts that are widely used by the traders for analysis, this software featured a range of specialized graphs that can be accessed from within a single screen. There is a wide variety of charting data to choose from, all available through a single interface. This kind of simplicity is similar to using a spreadsheet - from beginning to end, all you have to do is click. The software has been designed with simplicity and convenience in mind. It can be started from your operating system's desktop application menu, provided you have keyboard shortcuts assigned to the necessary function keys. This means that users can instantly launch their preferred functions with just one click on various buttons found on either side of the window's Main button.
