This chart shows how the share of people with a low level of education has changed over time. The world rate peaked in 1996 at 64.2 percent. By 2014, it was 57.7 percent. I'm sorry to see this, but it's your journey. Do what you like, I don't care at this point. Good luck to all the characters, no matter what happens to them. Very sorry to see you go, but you know what, it may even be good for you to cut your ties. Why not go on with your life and not spend so much time with this. Anyway, I'll still watch the show, because I enjoy it, but you're probably right, it might be good to let go. I think there are things you just have to leave alone to a certain extent. I believe the prime directive is just to stay alive. That's a pretty simple mission statement, but people get caught up in their personal lives, which are often frivolous, and forget about the most important thing. Cynthia's just not the most intelligent of characters, and I'm sure the show would be boring and just her whining about everything constantly. I hope things work out for you, but if I were you I'd just ignore all of this and start over again. Don't change a thing, but just continue your life. If it's a damn miracle of God, he'll give you a new lease on life. If it's luck, you'll get lucky.
